

10 Tips for Fathers

- Be there. When a father and child aren't close they both miss out on a lot.
- Your child looks to you to see how a man should act. Set a good example.
- Try to have a regular Date with Dad doing something you both enjoy.
- Put down the paper, turn off the T. V., and really listen.
- Kids whose father read to them are more creative and make better grades.
- Stay involved. Know what's going on in your child's life, both at school and with friends.
- Children who play with their parents and get plenty of hugs and kisses feel loved and good about themselves.
- Discipline fairly, firmly and with love. Focus on the behavior, not their character.
- Never yell at anyone unless the house is on fire. ☺
- Before you speak or act, stop and ask yourself, "If I say or do this will it move us closer together or farther apart?"
